MANY SALES LISTED FOR NEXT WEEK

Poor Prices for Products Cause Farmers to Seek Other Occupations

AUCTIONEERS BUSY

There is a possibility that the month of November will smash all records for auction sales. The low prices offered the farmer for his products this fall has forced many of the farm renters as well as farm owners to change to different locations and different occupations. The list of auction sales listed for the immediate future are:

On Friday, Oct. 27, there will be an auction sale on the Sam Kraak farm, located 3 miles northeast of Woodworth and 6 miles west of Kenosha, on the Plank road. At this sale will be offered 38 head of livestock, farm machinery, poultry, automobiles, grain and a large selection of miscellaneous articles. The property is owned by H. S. Dixon and will be sold by L. J. Slocum. The sale will start at 11 a. m.

Saturday, Oct. 28, will find the crowd traveling to Wedge's Corner on Grand avenue, where 31 head of livestock, farm machinery, poultry and a varied selection of miscellaneous articles will be placed on auction. The property is owned by Clarence Wedge and will be placed on sale at 12 o'clock. S. H. "Stub" Goodman will be the auctioneer.

Another sale of interest will be held on Monday, Oct. 30, on the Burnett farm, located one mile south of Lake Villa on the Grayslake road. Twenty-three head of livestock, including 19 head of Holsteins, and a complete farm equipment with a large list of miscellaneous articles will be placed on sale. Sale commences at 1 o'clock. Norman Burnett is the owner of the property and it will be sold under the direction of L. J. Slocum.

Another sale on Monday, Oct. 30, will be held on the James Turnock farm, situated 2 1/2 miles southeast of Salem and 2 1/2 miles northeast of Trevor. This sale will start at 10 a. m., and 39 head of livestock will be offered the public. A complete outfit of farm machinery and a large quantity of grain and miscellaneous articles will also be sold. The property is owned by James H. Turnock and L. H. Freeman will be in charge of the auctioneering.

On Tuesday, Oct. 31, on the McVicar farm, located 14 miles west of Kenosha on the old Plank road, one mile northeast of Paddock's lake and 3 1/2 miles northwest of Bristol, will be placed on sale 34 head of livestock, a large quantity of grain, farm machinery and various other articles. The sale will start at 10 a. m. and L. H. Freeman will be the auctioneer. The property is owned by James W. McVicar.

The property owned by Clayton Wertz and located on the Tiffany farm, one-half mile north and one mile west of Antioch, will be placed on public auction on November 10, commencing at 1:30 o'clock. The property consists of 46 head of livestock, a complete outfit of farm machinery, a large quantity of hay and grain, and a large selection of other articles. The property will be auctioned by George Vogel.

"HARVEST QUEEN" TO BE GIVEN HERE

The Harvest Queen with all her attendants of pages, fairies, fruits, flowers, gardeners, worms, weeds and pumpkins, will make her appearance in the High School gym at a very early date. So say the little people of the first, second and third grades, and they know. Go early to the gym that evening if you hope for a seat. There is no attraction on earth like unto that of a little child. When the Harvest Queen comes everybody and his wife will be there to pay her homage. Watch for the date.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, October 30, 1902
The masons began laying the stone walls for the new bank building Monday morning.
R. D. Emmons was transacting business in Chicago Friday and Saturday of last week.
The result of the registration in Antioch township shows that there are 546 names on the polling list.
Wayne Pullen returned to Antioch Sunday, having spent the summer in Indian Territory. He will probably remain here during the winter.

Sunday morning about 9 o'clock the large ice house owned by Esch Bros. and Rabe, at Loon Lake, was totally destroyed by fire, entailing a loss upon the company of some $50,000. The house was built about two years ago and was a large, modern constructed ice plant with all the latest improvements, consisting of an electric lighting plant and equipments for the rapid handling of ice.

Frank Chinn Passes Away Tuesday Night

Frank Chinn passed away at 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening at St. Anthony's hospital in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chinn had accompanied their son Robert to a specialist in Chicago, Saturday, Oct. 14, and during their short visit in the city Mr. Chinn was stricken with appendicitis and was removed to the hospital, where he was operated on Monday. It was thought Mr. Chinn was regaining rapidly but Tuesday the hospital authorities notified the family that his condition was serious and he passed away shortly after.

Mr. Chinn leaves besides his widow, two children, Robert and Irene and three brothers, Percy, Walter and Bert. Mr. Chinn was 38 years of age.

The Modern Woodman, of which he was a member, will have charge of the funeral, which will be held at the home Saturday at 1:00 p. m.

Will Sail for England 4th of Next Month

A party of Antioch folks, including Mrs. Fred Rhymer, Mrs. Fred Harden and her daughter Minnie and Mrs. Jack Fowles and her children, Elsie and Jack, leave next week on a trip to England. They will sail November 4th on the Olympic.

Mrs. Rhymer is to visit Mid Somer Norton in Somersetshire where she has relatives and friends. Mrs. Harden will visit Westonszoyland in the same county where reside her parents and will visit other relatives in London. Mrs. Fowles will visit her parents and other relatives in Bristol and London.

The party have not made definite arrangements for their return but their many friends wish them a godspeed and an early return.

THE DISASTER

A gentleman in Cincinnati employs two negroes to work on his rather extensive gardens, which he personally oversees. One morning Sam did not appear.

"Where is Sam, George?" he asked.

"In de hospital, sah."

"In the hospital? Why, how in the world did that happen?"

"Well, Sam he been a-tellin' me ev'y mo'nin' foh ten years he gwine to lick his wife 'cause o' her naggin'."

"Well?"

"Well, yestiddy she done ovahheah him."

"SOLD OUT"

In last week's issue of The Antioch News C. H. Griffin had a little want ad, which read: For Sale—Purple top turnips, 50c per bushel. Two days later Mr. Griffin said he was all sold out, and could have sold many more.

This little ad cost but a quarter. Call 43 and have your ad put in the paper, and we'll send the bill later.

All adds must be in the News office before 10 a. m. Wednesday.

To the realms of the souls departed,
That comforts the living in days of death
And strengthens the heavy-hearted.
It is faith in his dreams that keeps a man
Face front to the odds about him,
And he shall conquer who thinks he can,
In spite of the throngs who doubt him.

WHAT TO EAT

Let us eat more nuts. When properly masticated they are the finest of food.

Fruit Salad With Nuts.
—Take a slice of pineapple for each serving, place on each a small ball of seasoned cottage cheese, or cream cheese may be used. Sprinkle with finely minced walnut meats and serve with a spoonful of rich mayonnaise.

Another is prepared with a slice of pineapple cut into cubes; add twelve dates and one orange, one sliced banana and salad dressing. Cube the pineapple, dates and orange, add these to one-half cupful of walnut meats and the banana. Garnish with maraschino cherries. Mix well, adding enough good salad dressing to moisten. Serve in lettuce cups.

Spiced Walnuts.—Take two cupfuls of walnut meats, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of water, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix the sugar and water and boil until it hardens in water. Take from the fire, stir in the cinnamon and add the walnuts. Let cool, then the nuts are ready.

CELEBRATE 26TH ANNIVERSARY R. N. A. AT LAKE VILLA LAST WEEK

Cedar Lake Camp, No. 460, R. N. A., celebrated its twenty-sixth birthday at the Barnstable hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 12 and more than a hundred people were present to share in the evening's pleasure. The tables were nicely decorated with cut flowers and a bountiful supper of roast chicken and all that goes with it was served at 7:30, the charter members having the honor table, and Neighbor Hendricks, the first Oracle, cut the huge birthday cake. Of the twenty-six charter members, only eight were able to be present, the majority having moved too far away to be able to come for the evening, and two, Neighbors Quedenfeld and Tweed, have been called by death.

The camp was organized Oct. 12, 1896, and the officers installed by Deputy Alice Olson and Asst. Deputy Scott. The following were the first officers elected: Oracle, Lillie M. Sher (Now Hendricks); vice-oracle, Emily Nelson; chancellor, Carrie Boutwell; marshal, Mary I. Carlfield; recorder, Elma Rowling; receiver, Florence Harbaugh; managers, Katie Potter, Mary Bain and Kate Gerity; inside sentinel, Catherine Sherwood; outer sentinel, Mae Brown; physician, Dr. Shaffer.

Neighbor Hendricks in a few well chosen words gave a short history of the camp also a few of the pleasures they had in learning the work. One of the first degree staff, Neighbor Cynthia Miller, now of Gurnee, also made a few remarks.

George Kaye of Long Lake was present and gave bag-pipe selections

Firemen to Hold Ball on Armistice Day

The Antioch Volunteer Fire Department will hold its sixth annual ball Saturday night, Nov. 11, at the Antioch Opera House.

The annual dances of the fire department have always proved popular affairs and it is not expected that this year's ball will be an exception.

Schmidt's orchestra has been secured for the occasion and the music furnished by this well-known orchestra will prove a source of enjoyment to the old folks as well as the young. As is the custom of previous years, the department will provide supper, including this as well as the war tax in the sale of tickets at $1.10 a couple.

As this annual affair is one of the methods used for the raising of funds to maintain the department it should be the duty of all to contribute their help, either in the purchase of tickets or donation to the supper.

The 2 percent tax on insurance, a state law providing for the upkeep of fire departments, is said to be due and the department hopes those liable to this tax will make their report promptly.

COMPLETION OF ROAD IS EXPECTED NEXT WEEK

After what seems ages, the Rutledge Construction have practically completed their work of improvement on the Main street. Thursday should see the completion of cement work and the arrival of the bricks for the sides of the business section, now said to be at Kolze, will mean the completion of the improvement within a week. The board is having an ordinance drawn up for specification of sidewalks in the village and with the improvement completed Antioch will take on a different aspect.

and a group of songs in Scotch plaids and his part of the entertainment was much enjoyed, and we hope to have the pleasure again. Sixteen of the R. N. A. gave a pretty drill. It was an evening not soon to be forgotten, and such gatherings give new life to the work. Let's have more of them.

Don't worry your head about what is in store
Across some old bridge not in sight;
Don't weep in advance at the blood and the gore
To be spilled in a mythical fight;
Don't waste all your time bemoaning your fate,
And telling of ill-luck ahead;
Don't borrow your trouble and fix on a date
For its being paid when you're dead.
Just shine up your smile and go on with your job,
At that which is now at your hand;
Make each minute count, and each hour throbs
With the best that your strength can command.
The clouds of tomorrow may never appear;
And if they do, meet them a man!
'Tis only a coward who trembles with fear,
And in the retreat leads the van.
Live this day all through in a triumph of song,
As if it were all that you had;
Then let day follow day, as you travel along,
And you won't have the time to be sad.

MISS ALICE SMITH TO SPEAK AT WOMAN'S CLUB MEET NOV. 6

The Woman's Club will hold its regular meeting in the library Monday afternoon, Nov. 6th, at 3:30. The program will consist of special music under the supervision of the music committee and an address by Miss Alice Smith, subject—"The School and the Community." No further announcements are necessary to insure a good attendance, it being well known that when Miss Smith talks she says something.

The subject is one in which all are interested and no one is better qualified to present it than Miss Alice Smith of our high school.

With the opening of the club year the Woman's Club has resumed its active work. Everything indicates a year of pleasant harmonious intercourse, as well as another year of profitable constructive work that shall help make of Antioch a still better place in which to live. The Woman's Club presents new calls to service to which every good woman should respond.

Join the Club this year and help along the forward movements for which it stands. Many new names have been added to our membership list. Have you sent in your name?

Mrs. A. D. Felter is chairman of the committee for membership. She will be glad to present your name to the club and to extend to you a welcoming hand. We are not radicals. We do not pose as reformers. We are just a group of ordinary American mothers banded together to do what we can for "God and Home and Native Land." Send in your name.

Doings at the High School

The American history class has begun to collect material for its "History of the Town of Antioch." The history is to start in prehistoric times up to the present time.

All the high school pupils attended the "Health Show" at the Crystal Monday.

Heard in Vergil
Miss Smith—The Finnish language has sixteen cases, while the Latin only has five.

Albert H.—That would be my "Fin-lish."

The Mutts are still debating on what kind of eats the Jeffs are to enjoy.

The football team has a game scheduled for Saturday at Crystal Lake.

Elynn Dodge is trying to start a beauty parlor in school. Victor is very much interested.

Can anyone imagine who the most popular boy in school is. Don't push girls, you will all have a chance.

Ruth became so excited over the entrance of (who, I wonder) the other day that she fell out of her seat.

Wonder why Eleanor looks so blue since one of our honorable students have left school.

At the Antioch Grade School

Annie Hay, Ethel Levenson and Kenneth Van Patten read original stories to the other grades last week.

Ten pretty plants have been given to the fifth and sixth grades.

The eighth grade pupils are studying about stocks and bonds in arithmetic.

The first, second and third grades are showing splendid progress in their music.

There are thirteen pupils enrolled in the second grade and twenty-nine in the third.

The fourth grade children made Halloween favors last Friday.

Each room has a wall chart showing the record of attendance. A red label is for perfect attendance during the week and a gold star for perfect attendance during the month.

There are forty-five enrolled in the seventh and eighth grades. Twenty-four in the eighth and twenty-one in the seventh grade.

The second grade mourns the loss of Katherine Hay, but our loss is Chicago's gain.

The fifth and sixth grades are gathering material for a winter banquet.

Monday afternoon all of the children went up to the Crystal theater to hear talks on health. The theater was filled to capacity and some were turned away.

As an incentive to study, the pupils of the second and third grades are occasionally allowed to read their lesson to the pupils of the higher grades. So far this year this privilege has been granted to Hazel Hawkins, Betty Warriner, Katherine Hay, Calvin Wood, Billy Brook and John Murrie.

The fourth grade is very sorry to lose Annie Hay, who has moved to Chicago with her parents and is attending school there.

There are nineteen enrolled in fifth grade and twenty in sixth grade.

The seventh and eighth grades are studying about the "Survey System" in civics.

Sylvia Levenson and Lillian Larson sang several songs to the seventh and eighth grades last week.

There is much lively competition in the fourth grade between the two baseball teams recently organized, the girls and the boys. The girls are fast becoming heavy hitters and the boys have to watch their step.

Howard Mastne of Chicago visited fifth and sixth grades.

The second and third grades are busy with their plans for a program to be given the early part of next month.

Milton Mumford read, "Somebody's Mother" to the fourth grade.

This is health week.

Richard Folbrink told the story of Benjamin Franklin's life to the seventh and eighth grades.

Mr. Simpson visited school last Thursday afternoon.

Health posters are being made in the fifth and sixth grades.

Judging from the pumpkins, witches and black cats in the second primary room, we would say that Halloween is drawing near.

BETTERMENT OF ANTIOCH IS SEEN AT RALLY

Miss Baxter of Chicago Arranges Groups and Instructs Teachers

NEW CHURCH SCHOOL

The Church rally last Sunday was highly successful and the prospects for the new year's work are very bright.

One of the things for the new year is the reorganization of the Sunday School into the Church School. Miss Edna M. Baxter, director of Religious Education for the Chicago northern district, spent the first five days of the past week with the workers at groups, holding conferences, developing plans, instructing teachers and leaders and mapping out group programs with the several groups.

In cooperation with the pastor a Sunday School superintendent and other workers, a reorganization of the school has been effected which makes much more adequate provision for the religious and recreational training of all the groups of childhood and youth for whom the Church is responsible. It is believed that under the new organization the School will take strides forward in every line of work.

Special attention is called, however, to the fact that it is not the purpose of the Church School to undertake the work of religious education. It is the hope of the workers of the Antioch Methodist Church that a plan of Community Week-Day Religious Education will be worked out which shall be entirely separate from the Church School, a community school of religion. Therefore, the Methodist Church School has made no plans for any week-day religious instruction, but has left that field completely open for the community effort.

In the church rally Sunday morning, the pastor gave a keynote sermon for the work of the year. The keynote of the church is a program for making the life of the community thoroughly good and supremely happy. Sin must go. Hate must go. Malice must go. Nearly all want to go. Much of the sickness must go. Jealousy must go. All grudges and grouches and revenges must go. Sinfulness must go. All ill-will and feeling must go.

But the speakers pointed out that none of these things are ever banished from the life of any community until they are driven out of the lives of the individual persons in the community. He then proceeded to show that there is no other way any of these poisonous evils are ever driven out of life except by the coming in of the great, strong, sweetening power of God. Emphatically, no other force but the love of God, generating love for people, ever did or ever can destroy these evils out of the hearts of any person.

But this getting the great love of God into the hearts of the people, so filling every one with love, everybody else, this is the work of the church. It will be done by the church or it will not be done. Hence, clear as day, the redeeming of the community is the work of the church. Banishing evil and sin and hate and malice and jealousy and revenge and bitterness, and bringing in the reign of goodness and love and peace and good will and good feeling and preme happiness to the community and to the people—this is the work of the church.

Antioch village alone is too small. The whole community (radius so four miles) must be united in heart and action. Good will and good feeling and united thought and heart plan, based on fair dealing, must come to Antioch community, it must and can and shall be Antioch righteous. Antioch the beautiful, Antioch the lovely. This is our goal, it is worth absolutely any sacrifice can cost us. We can bring it, only through the church. Let us do it.

THE YOUNG CHIEF

SYNOPSIS.—To the Kentucky wilderness outpost commanded by Jerome Sanders, in the time immediately preceding the Revolution, comes a white boy fleeing from a tribe of Shawnees by whom he had been captured and adopted as a son of the chief Kahtoo. He is given shelter and attracts the favorable attention of Dave Yandell, a leader among the settlers. The boy warns his new friends of the coming of a Shawnee war party. The fort is attacked, and only saved by the timely appearance of a party of Virginians. The leader of these is fatally wounded, but in his dying moments recognizes the fugitive youth as his son. At Red Oaks, plantation on the James river, Virginia, Colonel Dale's home, the boy appears with a message for the colonel, who after reading it introduces the bearer to his daughter Barbara, as her cousin, Erskine Dale. Erskine meets two other cousins, Harry Dale and Hugh Willoughby. Duelling rapists on a wall at Red Oaks attract Erskine's attention. He takes his first fencing lesson from Hugh. Yandell visits Red Oaks. At the county fair at Williamsburg Erskine meets a youth, Dane Grey, and there at once arises a bitter antagonism between them. Grey, in liquor, insults Erskine, and the latter, for the moment an Indian, draws his knife. Yandell disarms him. Ashamed of his conduct in the affair with Grey, Erskine leaves Red Oaks that night, to return to the wilderness.

CHAPTER VI—Continued.

"Harry," said Colonel Dale, "carry your cousin my apologies and give him fire on condition that he ride him back some day. Tell him this home is his—the speaker halted, but went on gravely and firmly—"whenever he pleases."

"And give him my love," said Barbara, holding back her tears.

At the river-gate they turned to wave a last goodby and disappeared in the woods. At that hour the boy far over in the wilderness ahead of them had cooked a squirrel that he had shot for his breakfast and was gnawing it to the bones. Soon he rose and at a trot sped on toward his home beyond the Cumberland. And with him, etched with acid on the steel of his brain, sped two images—Barbara's face as he last saw it and the face of young Dane Grey.

The boy's tracks were easily to be seen in the sandy road, and from them Dave judged that he must have left long before daylight. And he was travelling rapidly. At sunset Dave knew that they were not far behind him, but when darkness hid the lad's tracks Dave stopped for the night. Again Erskine had got the start by going on before day, and it was the middle of the forenoon before Dave, missing the tracks for a hundred yards, halted and turned back to where a little stream crossed the road, and dismounted, leading his horse and scrutinizing the ground.

"He's seen us tracking him and he's doubled on us and is tracking us. I expect he's looking at us from somewhere around here." And he halted at the top of his voice, which rang down the forest aisles. A war-whoop answered almost in their ears that made the blood leap in both the boys. Even Dave wheeled with cocked rifle, and the lad stepped from behind a bush scarcely ten feet behind them.

"Well, by gum," shouted Dave, "foiled us, after all."

A faint grin of triumph was on the lad's lips, but in his eyes was a waiting inquiry directed at Harry and Hugh. They sprang forward, both of them with their hands outstretched:

"We're sorry!"

A few minutes later Hugh was transferring his saddle from Firefly to his own horse, which had gone a trifle lame. On Firefly, Harry buckled the boy's saddle and motioned for him to climb up. The bewildered lad turned to Dave, who laughed.

"It's all right."

"He's your horse, cousin," said Harry. "My father sent him to you and says his home is yours whenever you please. And Barbara sent her love."

At almost the same hour in the great house on the James the old negro was carrying from the boy's room to Colonel Dale in the library a kindly deed that the lad had left behind him. It was a rude scrawl on a sheet of paper, signed by the boy's Indian name, and his totem mark—a buffalo pierced by an arrow.

"It make me laugh. I have no use, I give hole dam plantashun Barbara." Thus read the scrawl!

CHAPTER VII

Led by Dave, sometimes by the boy, the four followed the course of rivers, upward, always except when they descended some mountain which they had to cross, and then it was soon upward again. The two Virginia lads found themselves much to their chagrin, as helpless as children, but they were apt pupils and soon learned to make a fire with flint and even with dry sticks of wood.

Three days' journeying brought them to the broad, beautiful Holston river, passing over the pine-crested, white-rocked summit of Clinch mountain, and came to the last outlying fort of the western frontier. Next day they started on the long, long wilderness trail toward the Cumberland range. On the third day thereafter the gray wall of the Cumberland that ran with frowning inaccessibility on their right gathered its flanks into steep gray cliffs and dipped suddenly into Cumberland gap. Up this they climbed,

On the summit they went into camp, and next morning Dave swept a long arm toward the wild expanse to the west.

"Four more days," he cried, "and we'll be there!"

The two boys looked with awe on the limitless stretch of wooded wilds. It was still Virginia, to be sure, but they felt that once they started down they would be leaving their own beloved state for a strange land of unknown beasts and red men who people that "dark and bloody ground."

Before sunrise next morning they were dropping down the steep and rocky trail. That night they slept amid the rocky foot-hills of the range, and next morning looked upon a vast wilderness stretch of woods that undulated to the gentle slopes of the hills, and that night they were on the edge of the blue-grass land.

Toward sunset Dave, through a sixth sense, had the uneasy feeling that he was not only being followed but watched from the cliffs alongside, and he observed that Erskine too had more than once turned in his saddle or lifted his eyes searchingly to the shaggy flanks of the hills. Neither spoke to the other, but that night when the hoot of an owl raised Dave from his blanket, Erskine too was up-right with his rifle in his hand. For half an hour they waited, and lay down again, only to be awakened again by the snort of a horse, when both sprang to their feet and crawled out toward the sound. But the heavy silence lay unbroken and they brought the horses closer to the fire.

"Now I know it was Indians," said Dave; "that hoss o' mine can smell one further'n a rattlesnake." The boy nodded and they took turns on watch while the two boys slept on till daylight. The trail was broad enough next morning for them to ride two abreast—Dave and Erskine in advance. They had scarcely gone a hundred yards when an Indian stepped into the path twenty yards ahead. Instinctively Dave threw his rifle up, but Erskine caught his arm. The Indian had lifted his hand—palm upward. "Shawnee!" said the lad, as two more appeared from the bushes. The eyes of the two tidewater boys grew large, and both clinched their guns convulsively. The Indian spokesman paid no heed except to Erskine—and only from the lad's face, in which surprise was succeeded by sorrow and then deep thoughtfulness, could they guess what the guttural speech meant, until Erskine turned to them.

They were not on the war path against the whites, he explained. His foster-father—Kahtoo, the big chief, the king—was very ill, and his message, brought by them, was that Erskine should come back to the tribe and become chief, as the chief's only daughter was dead and his only son had been killed by the palefaces. They knew that in the light at the fort Erskine had killed a Shawnee, his tormentor, for they knew the arrow, which Erskine had not had time to withdraw. The dead Shawnee's brother—Crooked Lightning—was with them. He it was who had recognized the boy the day before, and they had kept him from killing Erskine from the bushes. At that moment a gigantic savage stepped from the brush. The boy's frame quivered, straightened, grew rigid, but he met the malevolent glare turned on him with emotionless face and himself quietly began to speak while Harry and Hugh and even Dave watched him enthralled; for the lad was Indian now and the old chief's mantle was about his shoulders. He sat his horse like a king and spoke as a king. He thanked them for holding back Crooked Lightning's evil hand, but—contemptuously he spat toward the huge savage—he was not to die by that hand. He was a paleface and the Indians had slain his white mother. He had forgiven that, for he loved the old chief and his foster mother and brother and sister, and the tribe had always been kind to him. Then they had killed his white father and he had gone to visit his kindred by the big waters, and now he loved them. He had fled from the Shawnees because of the cruelty of Crooked Lightning's brother, whom he had slain. But if the Indians were falling into evil ways and following evil counsels, his heart was sad.

"I will come when the leaves fall," he concluded, "but Crooked Lightning must pitch his lodge in the wilderness until he can show that his heart is good." And then, with an imperious gesture he waved his hand toward the west.

"Now go!"

It was hard even for Dave to realize that the lad, to all purposes, was actually then the chief of a powerful tribe and even he was a little awed by the instant obedience of the savages, who without a word, melted into the bush and disappeared. Dave recovered his self with a little chuckle only when, without a word Erskine clucked Firefly forward, quite unobtrusively taking the lead. Nearing sunset, from little hill Dave pointed to a thin bluish wisp of smoke rising far ahead from the green expanse.

"There it is, boys!" he cried, and the horses were tired except Firefly and with a whoop Erskine darted forward and disappeared. They followed as fast as they could and they heard the report of the boy's rifle and the series of war-whoops with which he was heralding his approach. Nobody in the fort was fearful, for plainly was no unfriendly coming. All were gathered at the big gate and the were many yells and cries of welcome and wonder when the boy swept in the clearing on a run, brandishing his rifle above his head, and pulled his fiery black horse up in front of them.

"What'd you steal that hoss?" shouted Bud.

"Look at them clothes!" cried Jack Sanders. And the women—Moth Sanders, Mother Noe and Lydia and Honor and Polly Conrad—gathered about him, laughing, welcoming, shaking hands and asking questions.

"Where's Dave?" That was the chief question and asked by several voices at the same time. The boy looked grave.

"Dave ain't comin' back," he said, and then seeing the look on Lydia's face, he smiled: "Dave—" He had no further to go, for Dave's rifle cracked and his voice rose from the woods, and he and Harry and Hugh galloped into the clearing. Then were there more whoopings and greetings, and Lydia's starting tears turned to smiles.

Dave had to tell about his trip and Erskine's races—for the lad would say nothing—and in turn followed stories of killing buffalo, deer, panther and wildcat during his absence. Early the women disappeared, soon the men began to yawn and stretch, and the sentinels went to the watch-towers, for there had been Indian signs that day. This news thrilled the eastern lads, and they too turned into the same bed built out from the wall of one of the cabins and covered with bearskins. And Harry, just before his eyes closed, saw through the open door Erskine seated alone, the connecting-link between the tidewater aristocrats and these backwoodsmen and the savage enemies out in the black encircling wilderness. And that boy's brain was in a turmoil—what was to be his fate, there, here, or out there where he had promised to go at the next falling of the leaves?

The green of the wilderness dulled and burst into the yellow of the buckeye, the scarlet of maple and the russet of oak. This glory in turn dulled and the leaves, like petals of withered flowers, began to drift to the earth. Through the shower of them went Erskine and Firefly, who had become as used to the wilds as to the smiling banks of the far-away James. And the two now were one in mutual affection and a mutual understanding that was unchangeable.

The boy was the son of a king again, and as such was on his way in answer to the wish of a king. For food he carried only a little sack of salt, for his rifle would bring him meat and the forest would give him nuts and fruit. When the sun was nearing its highest, he "barked" a squirrel from the trunk of a beech; toward sunset a fat pheasant fluttered from the ground to a low limb and he shot its head off and camped for the night.

On the second day he reached the broad buffalo trail that led to the salt-leeks and on to the river, and then memories came. He remembered a place where the Indians had camped after they had captured himself and his mother. In his mind was a faint picture of her sitting against a tree and weeping and of an Indian striking her to make her stop and of himself leaping at the savage like a little wildcat, whereat the others laughed like children. Farther on, next day, was the spot where the Indians had separated them and he saw his mother no more. They told him that she had been taken back to the whites, but he was told later that they had killed her because in their flight from the whites she was holding them back too much. Farther on was a spot where they had hurried from the trail and thrust him into a hollow log, barring the exit with stones, and had left him for a day and a night.

Pretty Things That are made at Home

IT APPEARS that the responsibility for toning up or brightening is up afternoon and evening frocks is to of gathered ribbon and two long ends at the left side.

Christmas is not so far away, especially to those who make many of the things they give. It would be hard to think of anything that takes less time and trouble to make than the pretty ribbon things in which color counts for so much.

The decree of good taste that clothes for young girls must be simple, is as fixed and changeless as the laws of the Medes and Persians. Whether for school wear or for gay hours, the mandate is the same; even party frocks lose their allure if they are too fussy, and clever experts in ribbon, or of plain velvet ribbon, with very long ends and handsome ornaments at its fastening. In bright, metallic brocades, it lifts the simple afternoon frock, of crepe or satin, into the dinner dress class—"It makes the dress" as the saying is. Such a sash is pictured at the center of the group of sashes portrayed here, made of rich brocade ribbon, brought loosely about the waist and falling in two very long ends from under a short loop at the left side. One of these ends falls considerably below the hem of the dress in the accepted mode. While wearing this splendid affair the pretty lady examines a sort of daisy-chain sash of satin ribbon, showing flowers made of the ribbon, set at intervals on a double sash in which the ribbon is knotted between the blossoms. This pretty piece of finery, for wear with evening dress, ends with loops.

Narrow picot ribbon, in two colors, makes the useful sash shown at the right. The two ribbons are plaitdesigning never forget to plan clothes that are, at once, ingenious and simple. The results have a charm of their own and one that belongs only to young girlhood.

For school wear, wool jersey, serge, wool crepe, alpaca, Scotch plaids and knitted fabrics are the sturdy favorites that fashion approves this season—all tried and not found wanting. For dress-up frocks nothing excels crepe de chine or printed wash silks and there are additional airy materials for party frocks, including georgette crepe and net. Taffeta belongs to all ages; it is delightfully managed for young girls and the fitness of crepe de chine is apparent in the frock pictured here. It forms the blouse, which may have a skirt of the same, or of velvet, tulle, velours or wool crepe. The blouse is cut in kimono style, with round neck pliped with satin and finished with a tie with tasseled ends of silk cord. The blouse is gathered into a satin slip hand having two rows of fancy braid ed together and finished into long loops and ends at the left side. Bright color combinations, as royal blue and poppy red, make a delightful addition to a black frock—but colors are to be chosen with reference to their background. Just below, an odd sash of satin ribbon, shows the ribbon twisted for the giraffe, and blossoms, made of folded ribbon, set at each side of the front. There are long ends at the left side. Picot-edged ribbon, wound over a heavy cord, makes the last of the sashes pictured. There are three cords about the waist with a rosette stitched on it. Elbow sleeves are finished with similar bands.

Wool jersey is a fine choice for school wear and is made in one-piece, long-waist frocks. One model is fastened with bone buttons down the front of the bodice. Its round neck and long sleeves are suitably finished with baste collar and cuffs.

WHAT TO EAT

Let us eat more nuts. When properly masticated they are the finest of food.

Fruit Salad With Nuts.—Take a slice of pineapple for each serving, place on each a small ball of seasoned cottage cheese, or cream cheese may be used. Sprinkle with finely minced walnut meats and serve with a spoonful of rich mayonnaise.

Another is prepared with a slice of pineapple cut into cubes; add twelve dates and one orange, one sliced banana and salad dressing. Cube the pineapple, dates and orange, add these to one-half cupful of walnut meats and the banana. Garnish with maraschino cherries. Mix well, adding enough good salad dressing to moisten. Serve in lettuce cups.

Spiced Walnuts.—Take two cupfuls of walnut meats, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of water, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix the sugar and water and boil until it hardens in water. Take from the fire, stir in the cinnamon and add the walnuts. Stir until the nuts are thoroughly coated with the sirup. Spread on a platter to cool.

Sponge Cake With Cream Filling.—Beat the yolks of six eggs until thick and light-colored. Gradually beat in one cupful of sugar and add one-half cupful of boiling water. Flavor with a teaspoonful of lemon extract and gradually beat in one and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in two layers, put together with cream filling and leed with caramel icing.

Cream Filling.—Mix together seven-eighths of a cupful of sugar with one-third of a cupful of flour, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat the two eggs and stir into the mixture, add two cupfuls of scalded milk to the flour and sugar, stirring constantly until cooked and thick. Add a tablespoonful of butter, cool and flavor with vanilla.

Elderberry Pie.—Remove the ripe fruit from the stems, fill a pastry-lined shell with the berries, add a little sugar, one tablespoonful of vinegar and two of flour. Cover with strips of pastry or cover as desired and bake in a slow oven.

Old-fashioned flowers! I love them all:
The morning glories on the wall,
The pansies in their patch of shade,
The violets stolen from the glade,
The bleeding hearts and columbine
Have long been garden friends of mine.
But memory every summer floods
About a clump of hollyhocks.
—Edgar Guest.

DELICIOUS DRINKS

A delicious drink may be made by combining grape juice with ginger ale.

The two flavors blend well, and one gives zest to the other.

Grape Juice and Ginger Ale Jelly.—Heat a pint of grape juice with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. When hot, pour over two tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin which has been soaked in a little water. Add one pint of ginger ale. Cool, let stand on ice until ready to serve.

Coffee Marshmallow Cream.—Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of cold water until soft. Add two cupfuls of strong boiling hot coffee and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add one-fourth cupful of sugar, one cupful of condensed milk, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and one-quarter of a cupful of marshmallows, added just before chilling.

Fruit Jelly.—Pour two cupfuls of boiling water over one-half cupful of sugar, and when dissolved add two tablespoonfuls of gelatin soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, then add one cupful of pineapple juice, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, and when the mixture begins to thicken add one and one-third cupfuls of pineapple cut in cubes. Rinse a mold in cold water and turn in the mixture.

Milk Jelly.—Soak one and one-half cupfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of water. Cook two cupfuls of milk with four tablespoonfuls of sugar and the grated rind of a lemon over a slow fire. Add the soaked gelatin and stir until dissolved. Let stand until the milk is well flavored, then strain into a wet mold. Serve with cream and sugar.

When punch has a delicious flavor and is very refreshing. Take one cupful of whey and one and one-quarter cupfuls of sugar and boil together for five minutes. Cool and add one quart of whey, the juice of two lemons and one cupful of shredded pineapple.

Thousands of frail, nervous people and convalescents everywhere have testified to the remarkable power of Tanlac in bringing back their health, strength, and working efficiency. It seems to quickly invigorate the constitution and is a powerful foe of weakness. Mrs. Mary Choklat, 1415 N. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif., says:

"Before I took Tanlac, I was so weak I had to be helped from one room to another. My nerves were shattered and my digestion so poor I was almost afraid to eat anything, but now I am in perfect health and will always be grateful to Tanlac."

There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac. It enables the stomach to turn the food into healthy blood, bone and muscle, purifies the system and helps you back to normal weight. Get a bottle today at any good druggist.—Advertisement.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

WHERE FORMALITY IS WAIVED

Introductions Not Absolutely Demanded When Gentlemen Engage in Game of Craps.

Abe Jackson (colored) was indicted for stealing money from the station agent of a railroad. As the railroad was then under the control of the government, the trial was in a United States court.

The station agent, who was white, testified that he did not know Jackson and had never seen him before the day of the theft.

Jackson's defense was ingenious. He did not deny that he got the money from the agent, but claimed that he won it.

The presiding judge seemed astounded at the defense, and asked: "Do you mean to tell me that you won this money from the agent shooting craps?"

"Yes, suh."

"Why, the agent doesn't know you—never saw you before that day?"

"Deed, jedge, you don't have to know folks tuh shoot craps wif 'em!"

COPPER ALWAYS IN DEMAND

Durability of the Metal Has Made It Almost Indispensable for Variety of Purposes.

The many uses of copper may be imagined from the size of the output. It is said that if the United States were to cease producing, either all the trolley cars or all the armies of the world would cease operating, for outside of Michigan and Montana there is not enough copper in existence to supply both.

In the building trade copper is in great demand on account of its durability. At first glance the amount of copper seems to be negligible in comparison with iron and steel. It is used for such things as roofing, flashings, cornices, gutters, drain pipes, leaders and ventilators. These are nearly all copper in the large office buildings. In the Woolworth building, in New York, which is today the world's tallest skyscraper, there is approximately a million pounds of copper used for roofings, elevators and interior decoration.

Good words cool more than cold water.

Truly, the Female of the Species Is More Fortunate Than the Inferior Male.

Two cases in Judge Chesebro's court. First, the graceless male arrested for speeding after having imbibed two glasses of claret, $250 or 180 days in jail.

Second, the graceful maiden who drove her limousine into a man, failed to stop and render assistance, bumped into a cab and hit a slyver. And all without a drop of claret. Ten days in jail—suspended.

The graceless male might have done a lot of damage, of course, but actually his guilt was confined to "reckless driving."

The graceful female did do a lot of damage. But, of course, she never meant to, and she couldn't help it, and she was nervous, and there were tears in her eyes instead of claret on her breath, so there you are!

Proposed New Addition to Lake County Court House

Lake County is now paying rent for offices for the States' Attorney, County Superintendent of Schools, Board of Review and during a part of the year for the extra force of clerks used in extending taxes in the County Clerk's office.

In addition to the expense for rent there is a large amount of time lost in having a part of the books in the Court House and a part scattered in outside offices, even now, with these extra offices rented, the offices in the Court House are so crowded that the work is done at a great disadvantage and waste of time.

The vault in the County Clerk's office is so filled with files and records it is necessary to pile them up on tables, if any one wishes to examine any of them they must be carried in to the Supervisor's room or wherever they can find a space around the building to lay them down. The same condition exists in the County Treasurer's office and the public is greatly delayed in payment of taxes and transacting other business on account of lack of space for the clerks to work.

In the Circuit Clerk's and Recorder's office, where all the records of real estate are kept, the condition is still worse. There are about 800 volumes of books and records and shelves for about 600, which makes it necessary to pile about 200 on the floor, and whenever one is needed it is sure to be near the bottom of the pile. If this condition continues the books will be worn out with handling, so it will be necessary to have many of them rebound within the next few years, at an expense of from $8000 to $10,000.

The Recorder now has eleven clerks, there are always six and frequently eight abstractors at work in his office making 18 or 20 people working in two rooms and vault, besides attorneys and others examining records so that they all work at a great disadvantage being in each other's way.

This office will be divided in 1924, thus making it necessary, if no addition is made to the Court House, to rent some large building and at the county's expense build a vault to accommodate one of these offices and preserve the records.

The County Clerk's office will be divided on the first Monday of December, 1922, and the Probate Judge and County Judge will be obliged to use one room for holding court and the Probate Clerk will be obliged to have his office with some of the other offices.

The proposed addition will more than double its capacity and make ample room for all of the offices for at least the next twenty-five years. Three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) extended over twenty years will amount to only $15,000 per year, which, with the large valuation of the County, will not be noticed by any tax payer. The County has been levying $24,000 per year for the last few years for building fund for various purposes, so that the tax will not be much as it has been except for the item of interest, which will not amount to as much as the rent now being paid.

It is proposed under the tentative plans submitted to the County Board of Supervisors by the Architect, Mr. Herbert P. Beers of Highland Park, Ill., that in the proposed addition which will be built on the West of the present Court House, that the sub-basement will include coal and boiler rooms.

The first, or ground floor, will include an apartment for the janitor, Sheriff's office and storage vaults.

The second or main floor will contain County Treasurer's and County Clerk's offices and record vaults.

The third floor will contain the State's Attorney's office, County Court room, Judges Chambers, Jury Room, Board of Supervisor's room, with necessary committee rooms, which may also be used as jury rooms, when necessary.

The fourth floor will contain Probate Court room, Probate Clerk's office jury rooms, jury dormitories and Law Library.

Elevator service, toilets, etc on each floor.

The proposed addition will be of brick and stone construction, fire proof throughout and will conform to the style of architecture of the present building.

The building of this addition will in no-wise interfere with the working conditions in the present building as the only change contemplated in the old building is the placing of the elevator and staircase in the southwest corner now occupied as County Judges Chamber.

The architect has found after making a thorough investigation, that the present building is in excellent condition.

Jas. Anderson of Pleasant Prairie visited his brother Charles Sunday.

Mr. Haynes has his new house plastered.

Olson Camp, R. N. A. is doing a bit of hustling these days and new members are being taken in at nearly every meeting. On Tuesday evening degrees were conferred upon seven candidates. About 45 members were present and a most enjoyable evening was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hostetter are entertaining a sister from Kenosha this week.

John, James and Charles Horan attended the funeral of their aunt at Evanston on Wednesday. Mrs. Rohrer passed away at Denver, Colo. last week.

Mrs. Ruth Van Patten has returned home from nursing Mrs. Haycock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Grice left Tuesday, motoring through Iowa, stopping at Waterloo and calling on Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rogers of Grinnell and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rogers of Rolfe, formerly of this place.

On Wednesday of last week occurred the wedding of Miss Hazel Wilton and Mr. Joseph Rhymer in Waukegan. The wedding party was accompanied by Miss Aneta Wilton, sister of the groom, and David Van Patten. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rhymer left for a trip to Spooner, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson have rented the home of Miss Ella Ames and expect to move into it the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Arthur Edgar and daughter Edith were Milwaukee visitors on Monday of this week.

A large number of the members of Olson Camp, No. 459, R. N. A., are planning to attend the big county meeting which is to be held in the Masonic Temple in Waukegan Thursday. At this time Waukegan camp will entertain every Royal Neighbor camp in Lake County and a big time is anticipated.

The Mystic Workers held their regular meeting Oct. 20. At this meeting three new candidates were initiated and installation of officers took place. After this refreshments were served dance.

October 23rd the local chapter of the Daughters of the G. A. R. was hostess to the department commander, Mrs. Gertrude Hassis of Chicago, and two members of her staff. The occasion was one of especial enjoyment to all present. Nearly every active member was at her post of duty and many of the honorary members were present to live over again the memories of 1861 to 1865.

The beautiful and impressive muster service was conducted in such a creditable manner as to call forth the highest commendation from our visiting superior officers.

The department commander gave a brief report of the National Convention held in Des Moines and presented the Fortress with the cash prize awarded by headquarters to the chapter showing the second greatest increase of membership for the year.

She called attention to the fact and its especial significance that this prize was offered to any fortress, any where throughout the States from Maine to California, and was captured by Fortress Monroe of Antioch, Ill.

Now we know how the boys felt when they went "over the top" and found the enemy on the run.

We certainly appreciated the visit of these officers and the words of encouragement and commendation they gave us, and as good soldiers should, will continue to "carry on."

The next meeting, Nov. 13, will be an open meeting to which the husbands of Fortress Monroe will be invited.

Of that meeting more will be said later.

Card of Thanks
I wish to thank all my friends and Royal Neighbors for the kindness shown me in my recent illness and stay while in the hospital in Chicago.

Mrs. P. Laurson.

St. Ignatius' Church News

Next Saturday afternoon there will be a Hallowe'en party in the Guild Hall at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. This will be the last chance to use the Guild Hall before it is given up. It is especially for the children of the Church School.

Next Sunday all the services as usual: Church School at 9:45 and Morning Prayer and address at 10:00. Next Sunday is the Twentieth Sunday after Trinity. Hallowe'en, or the Eve of All Saints' Day is a very ancient and venerable custom among Anglo-Saxon people. All Saints' Day always comes on November 1st, and it is at that time that the Church remembers all the saints and martyrs that have shed their blood for her life. It is right that we should do so. Many have given their lives for the Christian Faith in inconspicuous surroundings, and it is those especially that the Church wishes to remember on

All Saints' Day. In ancient times the belief in spirits was so strong that the people thought they saw the spirits wandering around on the Eve of All Hallowes. From that belief came the custom of jack-o'-lanterns, etc., which are intended to represent the wandering spirits of the departed. And so we see that Hallowe'en or All Saints' Eve, really has quite a strong religious significance.

ALVIN OWSLEY HEADS LEGION

Young Texan Installed as National Commander of the Organization.

QUIT JOB TO FIGHT GERMANS

Went Overseas and Took Part in Two Major Operations—Illinois Turns Tide in His Favor—Election Made Unanimous.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 21.—Mounted on a figurative "old gray mare," Alvin M. Owsley of Denton, Tex., rode through the American Legion hall here and was installed on the platform as national commander for the forthcoming year. The young major outdistanced his competitors early in the balloting, and when the end came was more than 300 votes ahead.

Owsley, who is thirty-three years old, is one of the most popular soldiers ever honored with the biggest job of the legion.

A lawyer, Owsley resigned as a district attorney in Texas at the outbreak of the war and recruited a battalion. After serving as division insurance officer and senior instructor for the third officers' training camp at Camp Bowie, Tex., he went overseas and took part in two major operations.

Illinois turned the tide of the election. Opposing Owsley were William F. Deegan of New York, Joseph Thompson of Pennsylvania and John M. McCormick of Colorado. Each nomination brought equal cheers, and the result was doubtful. The first ten states scattered their votes. Then Illinois was called. The leader of the delegates rose and shouted: "Sixty votes for Owsley."

From then on down the list the votes for Owsley came fast and furious, the South voting solidly for the young man. The final count was: Owsley, 574; Deegan, 251; Thompson, 205; McCormick, 12.

The other candidates then withdrew their names and asked that the election be made unanimous. It was done.

"There are just four things that the legion means to push, just four things that are on our standard," Major Owsley said. "They are rehabilitation, hospitalization, adjusted compensation and Americanization. We're going to fight for the adjusted compensation to a finish and we'll win it, too. I will give everything I have to this service."

RUIN IN DRY SEA RULE?

Chairman Lasker of U. S. Shipping Board Assails Daugherty's Rum Ruling at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States shipping board, told delegates to the convention of the Audit Bureau of Circulations that Attorney General Daugherty's ruling barring liquor from all American ships spells the ruin of American passenger shipping. As the attorney general was the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. Lasker's remarks were looked upon as a direct challenge.

OLD SAYING IS REVERSED

According to This Yarn Man Seems to Be the Dog's Best Friend.

Scott's Bluff, Neb., Oct. 21.—The body of W. E. Calhoun was taken from a government irrigation ditch, two miles below where Calhoun, disregarding his inability to swim, had plunged in to rescue a favorite game dog. Calhoun had killed a duck and the dog, in an effort to retrieve, had been caught in the swift current of the canal. The dog swam to safety.

MAN PARACHUTES TO SAFETY

Army Pilot Jumps From Wobbling Monoplane at Dayton and Escapes Without Injury.

Dayton, O., Oct. 21.—Lieut. Harold R. Harris, who won the commercial plane event at Detroit last week, escaped death by leaping in a parachute from his wobbling monoplane 2,000 feet over North Dayton. The plane crashed in a back yard. Lieutenant Harris landed several blocks away.

LLOYD GEORGE QUILTS

British Prime Minister and His Cabinet Resign.

Andrew Bonar Law, Leader of Conservative Party, Forces End of Coalition Government.

London, Oct. 20.—The resignation of Prime Minister David Lloyd George, which carried with it the resignations of the entire coalition cabinet, was accepted by King George. Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the conservative party, which forced an end to the coalition government, accepted King George's proposal to form a new government.

The cabinet debacle was precipitated by a meeting of Tories. Austen Chamberlain, conservative leader in the house of commons, was repudiated as his support of Lloyd George, and a resolution was passed declaring for conservative autonomy at the next election.

Interpreted, this was a call for Chamberlain's resignation, implying that of Lloyd George and the members of his cabinet. This action took place in the morning. At 6:08 at night the resignation of Lloyd George formally was announced.

SINKS HULK OF HONOLULU

Guns of U. S. Cutter Shawnee Send Remains of Liner to Bottom.

San Francisco, Oct. 19.—The last tragedy in the sea fire which burned the liner City of Honolulu has been written. The great vessel, former pride of the German transatlantic fleet, lies at the bottom of the Pacific. She was destroyed by the coast guard cutter Shawnee on instructions from the United States shipping board. A rain of two-pounder shells was poured broadside on the rolling hulk until she sank. The vessel had drifted into the regular steamer course, which made her a menace to navigation.

COURT UPHOLDS BAN ON LIQUOR

Government, However, Will Go Slow in Enforcing the Order.

APPEAL IS TO BE TAKEN

U. S. Not to Be Unreasonable in View of Complications That Might Arise—Will Await High Court's Ruling.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The decision of Federal Judge Hand in New York dismissing the application of representatives of foreign and domestic shipping interests for an injunction against the government to prevent it from enforcing the Volstead law means that the new regulations carrying into effect the recent opinion of Attorney General Daugherty will be formulated and put into effect at once.

The regulations are being completed in the office of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and will be ready for the action of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon when he returns to Washington.

"In view of the great importance of this question and the various features involved, we are not going to be unreasonable in the enforcement of the regulations soon to be issued," said Major Haynes.

"Everyone realizes that so far as foreign shipping is concerned there may be many complications as the result of the enforcement of the provisions of the attorney general.

"Therefore, until the Supreme Court of the United States has an opportunity to decide the case, nothing will be done by the prohibition enforcement officials to embarrass the government in any way in dealing with the question of liquors on foreign ships coming within the three-mile limit of the territorial waters of the United States."

LABOR SHORTAGE IS ACUTE

U. S. Survey Points General Business Revival Throughout the Nation—Farm Workers Wanted.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Actual shortages of skilled and common labor exist generally throughout the country, according to a special survey completed by the Department of Labor.

There is also a shortage of farm labor in many of the agricultural sections. Clerks form the only class of workers for which the supply exceeds the demand, it is stated.

PLOT IS SEEN IN WRECK

Conductor of Wabash Train Ditched in Indiana Says Spikes Were Pulled From Rail.

Williamsport, Ind., Oct. 21.—Deliberate wrecking of a Wabash passenger train was charged by Conductor Frank W. Holbust of Detroit.

The wreck, which caused the death of three persons and the injury of six others, was the result of the removal of a rail. Conductor Holbust said the rail was not removed from its place, but that the spikes had been loosened. The wiring was left in its place, so as not to disturb the signals. Authorities are investigating the theory that a plot to wreck the train was the cause of the derailment.

AGREEMENT FOR RAIL MERGER

Application Made for Uniting Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington.

BLAME FIREBUG FOR 15 DEATHS

Five-Story New York Tenement Is Destroyed by Flames.

MOST OF DEAD WERE CHILDREN

Other Blaze Set Making Total of 22 Lives Lost Recently—Fire Marshal Finds Clear Evidence of Maniac's Work.

New York, Oct. 23.—A pyromaniac who started a blaze is blamed for the fire which destroyed a five-story tenement at Lexington avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street and cost fifteen lives. Numerous others are in hospitals badly burned. Most of the dead were children.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy and detectives found clear evidence that the fire had started in a baby carriage in the hallway, the blackened steel skeleton of which was found beside the charred woodwork.

A total of twenty-two lives are believed to have been sacrificed by the same fire maniacs within a month. Seven lives were lost at a fire of similar origin on Sept. 27 in West One Hundred and Ninth street, near Columbus avenue. In the first case, two baby carriages were ablaze in different hallways at almost the same minute.

Blazes in other parts of the city have been set by the same method of putting paper or old rags in baby carriages and touching a match to them.

The fifteen bodies were taken to Bellevue morgue, several so charred as to be unrecognizable. Two bodies were reported missing, and the missing and the unidentified may be the same.

Flames leaping from the roof alarmed the neighborhood for blocks in all directions before the tenants in the burning buildings were themselves thoroughly roused. The fire had raged up the stair well so swiftly that all escape by that route was cut off before the sleeping occupants of the building knew their danger.

"In the Name of the Law" to Be Shown at Crystal

"In the Name of the Law," a police drama that crackles with exciting incidents and glows with heart interest is the current attraction at the Crystal Theater, where it will hold forth for two days, Friday and Saturday.

The O'Hara's are typically American middle class. Patrick has served for thirty years on the San Francisco police force. For years he has saved to buy the little home in which he lives. His son, Harry, is working his way through law school. Johnny, a younger son, is a teller in a bank, while Mary, an adopted daughter, is a stenographer in the same bank. Mrs. O'Hara is the busy, bustling housewife.

At last the money is saved. They are to own their own home. Then comes word that Harry has stolen six hundred dollars. To save him a life's dream must be shattered. The old man is adamant—his son must suffer if he is guilty.

That night on duty Patrolman O'Hara is summoned to a robbery. He sees a shadow in the dark. He shoots. When he turns the prostrate figure over he sees—his own son, Johnny.

Harry has been cleared of guilt. The money, supposedly stolen, has been found. Now a lawyer, his first trial is to defend his own brother, Johnny. And the first trial is a success. Mary tells the story of how the treasurer of the bank was the real guilty party. And Mary and John prepare to start their married life—and to own their own little cottage.
